Yeah, I guess I took the long route on that. But, now using the KR file. I will now just merge the variables that I need from HR and IR files to KR file and use that for my analysis. I'd appreciate if you could also let me know the consequences of not using svy commands in my analysis. I mean I know it is important to use it for representativeness but I would like to know that is there any situation where not using svy command is justified?

Thanks.
