Thank you very much for the fast response. Two quick follow-up questions:

1. So, if somebody is currently living in a slum and respond that they are born in the neighborhood we can be relatively confident that they have lived in the slum their entire lifewith the potential caveat that the area may have become a slum in-between their birth and the survey date?

2. Is there any information on how large a neighborhood is (sq km, population, etc)?
