Hello Bridgette,

Thank you very much for your time and effort.

I am doing it again and again and this time, my result are quiet closer to the one in report. Another thing I experienced is, the output differs when I run syntax and do it manually in SPSS but don't know why. The result are same for exclusive breastfeeding and exbf with water, solid etc for some of the age group but in some other age group, it differ by few points and in some by few percentages, can be noticed from the attached file. In this case, will my result be valid if differs by few points?

My result are same for initiation of breastfeeding within one hour and a day as in Table 11.2, number of youngest children living with mother and etc.

I really appreciate your help.

Thank you once again.
S
