Following is another response from Senior DHS Stata Specialist, Tom Pullum:

You are right--our data processing archives for India include "raw" data files for NFHS-1. However, (1) they are not user-friendly (we in the analysis group never touch those files) and (2) they would not contain more information about geography than is in the recoded files. What you propose to do--tracking districts across the successive NFHS rounds--sounds interesting, but I don't see how we can help you with it.
