Hello Koray

Do you mean that in the 2016 survey only the years need to be converted?

I can see that birth month in the 2016 survey has already been converted, as there are 12 months (not 13).

Am I right to think that the conversion to birth year relies on birth month being correct?

If so, then I can't just convert years on their own.

It looks like from my cross-tabbing of birth month and year that it's the months that are wrong in the converted data (some of them occur after data collection is finished in June 2016).

Sandra
