In NFHS-5, not all sections of the questionnaire are administered to every eligible women. All eligible women answer the questions in Section 1-7 of the woman's questionnaire, but only a subsample are asked the questions in Sections 8-11, which includes the HIV section. The identification block on the cover page of the woman's questionnaire include the following question: "Is household selected for the state module?" The state module is essentially the long version of the questionnaire. There is a filter question at the end of Section 7 of the woman's questionnaire (Q. 732) that checks whether or not the household was selected for the state module. If the answer is NO, then the interviewer skips to the end of the questionnaire. The same procedure was used in the NFHS-4 survey.
