Dear Tom,

Thank you for your response, this is helping me so much, I will consider changing my research question of survival analysis in perinatal mortality.

My further queries,

I will also investigate factors correlated with perinatal mortality in a simple way using logistic regression (Socio-demographic, maternal health, etc). You know this.

My questions:

Is there any possibility to do further analysis after the logistic regression, such as PATH ANALYSIS, to model the correlations between variables with the perinatal mortality?

Thank you for your help

Best Regards,
Sam
