Thanks a lot. This actually works!

I prefer the second approach better. This issue does not apply to the couples recode (probably because this woman is not listed there).
As already written, the nest=T option creates problems when running some R function (e.g., lmtest::waldtest would produce an unequal sample between models error).

Kind regards,
Hamid