Following is a response from DHS staff member, Tom Pullum:

You seem to be making a distinction between PSU and cluster. The clusters ARE the PSUs. The clusters are probably optimal for your purposes, in terms of providing a normative context for attitudes about women's work, as well as a local labor market. In the past two years DHS has prepared two analytical studies that treat the cluster as the local context:

<https://www.dhsprogram.com/pubs/pdf/AS82/AS82.pdf> and

These reports describe strategies to deal with the small numbers of cases in the clusters. The clusters are small, but there are many of them.
