Following is a response from Senior DHS staff member, Tom Pullum:

Yes, in an 8+4 breakdown, grades 7 and 8 would be grouped with primary. I would expect that the changes in the primary and secondary breakdown would not affect the standard number of years for post-secondary.

DHS staff cannot respond to questions about country-specific education systems. Perhaps other users can help. You may also be able to find a Kenyan or UN website with such information.

I don't know when the updated files will be released, but when it happens, a data alert will be sent out to users who downloaded the previous version. Only the recodes of single years of schooling are affected and you can revise them yourself.
