Dear Bridgette,

I had totally forgotten to reply to this. The paper is actually pretty helpful and definitely gives me some material to work with in my analysis.

Please give my thanks to Tom. I also wondered how exactly to cite this paper when I use some of it in my thesis.

I found this citation in Google Scholar:

Pullum, T. W. (1981). Adjusting Stated Fertility Preferences. Predicting Fertility: Demographic Studies of Birth Expectations, 129.

Is that the correct one?
