Following is a response from DHS staff member, Tom Pullum:

I see that in the MR file, 554 men have NA (a dot in Stata) for sm1054a, etc., as well as for many, if not most, of the other sm105* variables. In the CR file, this reduces to 320 cases. This is less than 2% of the men, which is too small for it to be due to subsampling. I have checked and do not find any relationship with marital status. If an explanation can be found, we will post a followup.
