Hi Tom and Janet,

Thank you both very much for your response. This is critically illuminating. I need the children to be at least 21 in 2016 because that way, they would have had an opportunity to pursue primary-tertiary education. It is just easier to draw conclusions when they've, theoretically, "finished" school rather than when they are still going through the system.

Hopefully, this results in a sufficient sample size.

Much thanks once again,

Jackie.
