For 2014 and 2022, approximately half of the data for baby size are missing. Kenya is the only country like this (there are others with 100% missing data and most others have about 2% missing cases). The children are all under 36 months, and I can't find anything in the questionnaire skip patterns that would explain it.

Does anyone know why so many cases are missing? There is no socioeconomic gradient of missingness.
