Dear Liz

Thank you so much for the hint. I have already consulted the mentioned report, unfortunately it did not provide the information I had hoped for. It's focus is much more general, while I would require detailed information for the case in India. My replicate of the index is already rather close to the original, but I do not manage to completely replicate the index. If you have any more detailed information available or could point me to someone who does, that would be very helpful!

Thank you & Regards
Rafael
