Dear members

I have been reading the documents about the height and weight registers of children under 5, but now I have several doubts, and I would be really grateful if you could solve it.

Are there the same number of registrered cases of HAZ and WHZ in a PR file and in a KR file in each country? I have read that there are diffences between both, because one has records of all members listed in the household, and the other only ever born children 0-59 months of age, from women with completed interviews.

Thank you very much in advance
