Sorry but your message isn't making a lot of sense. What dataset are you trying to use? Can you send screenshots of the messages you are getting?

For the maternal mortality ratio, there is only one national estimate that can be produced from the survey and this is published in the report, so I suggest you just take the number from the report. It is not possible to disaggregate the data by any background characteristics or subnational areas as the sample size is much too small to provide an estimate that has any meaning.
