Dear all, we are working with a large number of DHSs and we had a problem with Kenya 2014 because they applied two different questionnaires (long and short version), the long one for a sub-sample.

I would like to know if there are other surveys where questionnaires were applied to sub-samples, as was the case for Kenya 2014.

Thank you!

There aren't other surveys that applied long and short questionnaires so extensively, but there are quite a few that have applied particular modules (e.g. biomarkers) to subsets of the sample (e.g. half of households in a cluster)
