I am working on health services uptake and I could not find data on distance of the cluster/household from the nearest health facility in both the individual recode or GPS datasets. Is this data/information available in some form? Similarly are there any information on availability of other types of infrastructure such as schools/colleges? Since the spatial coordinates of clusters are moved for the purpose of non-identification, I am unable to calculate the actual distance from these locations. What proxy measures can be used? Any guidance in this regard will be very helpful.
